The structure of Kids and Cadets is based on the Marine Corps model of discipline, organization, pride, and citizenship. Once a month, students meet with their mentors at Rahway High School, and participate in activities which include academics such as writing original narratives, persuasive essays, reports, and interviews. The social activities include bowling, skating, publishing original stories and poems, luncheons and Broadway plays. As a result, students have published 3 books, and have won 1st place in a literary contest.

Since community involvement is also very crucial in this program each year, the Kids and Cadets honor a member of the community (both Plainfield and Rahway) as an expression of
