

A senior treat

Students at Plainfield's Hubbard Middle School continued a 10-year tradition Wednesday when they sang holiday carols for seniors living in Plainfield Tower West on West Seventh Street.

Above, resident Bertha Jasper, who used to be a cook at the school, dances with students (from left) Britney Williams and Yesica Molina.

Below left, Yesica hugs Jasper. And below right, students and seniors sing a Christmas song.

The students, under the supervision of Hubbard teacher Cheryl Nagel-Smiley, periodically walk from the West Eighth Street school to the building to spend time with seniors as part of their community service projects.

GALLERY ON THE WEB

See more photos at
MyCentralJersey.com

