

TAP into Plainfield

Your Neighborhood News Online

Maxson Sixth-Grader from Plainfield Gets Overachiever Award

Former Plainfield Mayor Sharon Briggs, Amy N. Del Cid and Plainfield NAACP President Peter Briggs

By TAP INTO PLAINFIELD STAFF

March 10, 2016 at 8:03 AM

PLAINFIELD, NJ - Sixth-grader Amy N. Del Cid, a student at Maxson Middle School, recently was recognized with the “Overachiever Award” by the Plainfield Chapter of the NAACP along with other Maxson and Plainfield Public Schools students and community representatives during the NAACP’s Black History Month.

Amy, who was nominated by the civic and community organization Angels for Action’s Director Carmen Salavarrieta, is an honor roll student at Maxson Middle School and is enrolled in Maxson’s STEM Academy. Her course workload includes STEM Geography, STEM Mathematics, STEM Life Science, STEM Language Arts, STEM Research, Physical Education and Music.

Juan Pablo Jimenez, interim principal at Maxson, said, “It’s a privilege and an honor to have Amy and our students represent Maxson School at the highest standards.”