

Plainfield student wins holiday card design competition

Sunday, December 25, 2016

PLAINFIELD - Plainfield Public Schools selected the design of fifth-grade student, Jocelyn Pico, for the greeting card the district mailed out to the Plainfield Community this holiday season. Pico's design was reproduced, printed and mailed out to more than 200 entities that support the students of the Plainfield Public School District.

Her principal, Lisa Armstead, and her Art teacher, Irene Mitta, at Woodland Elementary School, were very supportive of Pico, assisting her with supplies and time to complete the project, according to a district news release.

A committee selected Pico's artwork from among approximately 20 entries submitted by students from Clinton Elementary School, Evergreen Elementary School, Jefferson Elementary School, Washington Community School and Union County Teams Charter School.

Jocelyn will be presented with a Certificate of Appreciation by the Superintendent of Plainfield Public Schools Anna Belin-Pyles and a gift certificate donated by the duCret School of the Arts, worth $199, that will offer Pico eight weeks of art instruction at the school, on Central Avenue in Plainfield; visit <https://www.ducret.edu/saturday-mornings/>.
